choly accident: Lahaina, Sept. 7, 1871. MR. EDITOR-SIR: At about 2 o'clock P. M. today, I was called upon by an elderly native who had a sad tale to tell of a shocking accident which occurred at Kauaula, in Labaina. It seems that several men were engaged in making a water-course alongside a precipice some twenty-five or perhaps thirty feet high. While they were at work digging, we have seldom had the good ferture to meet with, and we the side caved in, and some dozen or more large rocks tumbled down, crushing one man, Honolli, to death instantly, laying open his skull so that you might lay your hand in the gash, and crushing the right leg, and, except a small bit of flesh and skin, the left leg of another man named Papohaku,

I visited the place in company with Mr. McCully, as soon as we could get there. It was not deemed necessary to hold an inquest, the whole story could be read by a look at the rocks. But every effort was made to get the injured man to the Queen's Hospital. An impromptu stretcher was made to bring the wounded man down on. Mr. Turton, hearing of the accident, immediately volunteered to detain his vessel until the man could be got on board, Capt.

We here consider that the only hope of saving the life of the unfortunate man was to get him to the Hospital at as early a time as practicable, where he | our patent. can not only have surgical aid but proper nursing. I feel almost sick when I think of the sight wit-

ROTAL HAWAIIAN THEATHE.-This time-honored place of ampsement, which in years past has been the scene of many triumphs-in minstrelsy and the drams-opened on Thursday evening last under the management of Mr. Chas. Although the weather appeared rather unpropitious during the first part of the evening, the theatre was crowded long before the hour of commencement, in consequence of which many were unable to obtain scats. The fashionable an dience, together with the decorations and other improvements made by Mr. Derby since the house was last opened, presented a bright and cheerful ap-pearance. The performance began promptly at the hour announced, and as the troupe took their places, preceded by the old favorite, Mr. Frank Jones, who retains his former position on the end, they received a most hearty welcome.
